Introduction

Today's business development is growing rapidly, up to the internet (online media). This kind of business system has been widely used by multinational companies to small retail traders. The buying and selling business system is the main commodity that uses this method, where with a sales system like this it is very easy for the target market to buy what is needed without having to visit the store or the place of sale.

Shopee is one of the newcomer online shopping sites that is currently on the rise, when compared to other online shopping sites. Shopee's presence in Indonesia began in December 2015. Shopee's achievements through its marketplace are through promotions, in a short time shopee users are not inferior to other online shop competitors. Shopee also has an integrated method with the support of several logistics that have secure, convenient and easy payment methods, thus making online shopping easy, both for sellers and buyers. Shopee already has business partners of more than 70 of the best courier services across the country and provides various logistical support for all its users, shopee has also increased its cooperation by sharing local logistics services. Many consumers from Shopee are interested because of the free shipping service, besides that Shopee is trying to reduce the distance with other e-commerce that has been in Indonesia for a long time. This proves the progress of Shopee which always strives to provide the best for users in various supporting countries.

In fact, the majority of residents in the hamlet of Wangkis rt 02 rw 07 Dibal Ngemplak District, Boyolali have not used digital technology in product marketing. This can be proven from the data we get, that there are still very few wangkis citizens who use social media to promote their products. Where consumers find it difficult to find MSME products that come from dibal, especially wangkis hamlet, of course this shows and proves the low awareness of technology and the implementation of social media.

This condition indicates that the MSME entrepreneurs in Wangkis, as a whole, have not implemented the importance of social media in marketing, and are not yet literate (responsive) to technology. How is it possible that the product will be widely known and able to compete in the creative industry market, as well as local, regional and national industries.

Although marketing through the Internet has become ubiquitous, not all online shops use business communications via the Internet in the same way and on target. Marketing strategy through online media business is actually quite difficult to penetrate the market in Indonesia.

This activity also received support from the Dibal Village apparatus. This support was motivated by the involvement of the Wangkis hamlet community in socializing the development of marketplace-based MSMEs. Through this activity, it is hoped that MSMEs in Wangkis Village can synergize with technological developments and be able to compete with other businesses, so that the products produced can be marketed and known by the wider community which will then have an impact on improving people's welfare.

Discussion

Through community service activities that have been carried out through various stages, progress has been made, namely the development of micro, small and medium enterprises and participants receive training materials on product marketing through digital marketing, so that participants get a place in the form of an online store. Product marketing through technology or online media provides satisfaction for training participants, from tips to get customers, the first thing to do when getting customers, the packaging process, delivery to withdrawal of money available in the marketplace, making it easier for participants to manage finances. Based on the observations that have been made, it is known that the interest of participants to start micro, small and medium enterprises has increased. At first, only housewives now have the desire to start a business, and market the business through digital marketing, according to the recapitulation of marketplace-based micro, small and medium business development activities, after the service has increased by 11 housewives.

Conclusion
Community service activities carried out by the KKN team of group 13, Sahid University Surakarta, through socialization with the lecture method, tutorials and discussions on the development of marketplace-based micro, small and medium enterprises have increased.
