Introduction

The Indonesian government recognizes English as the first foreign language, essential for scientific, technological, and cultural development and international cooperation. English is taught through four skills: speaking, writing, speaking, and listening. In the information and globalization era, the government has issued Act No. 2 of 1989 and Regulation No. 28 of 1990 to develop human resources in education. Mastering English skills, including listening, speaking, talking, and speaking, is crucial for students' future development. In the millennial era and pandemic, teachers must be more active in teaching online or offline. SEPAMA, an integrated Musa Asian School in Cambodia, teaches English as a foreign language but has a lower literacy rate compared to Indonesia and the Philippines. To address this, the dedication team is providing training on the Cocomelon Youtube Channel to help students learn to speak in both Cambodia and Indonesia. As we all know that YouTube is a video-watching application that is very popular in today's society (Anggraini et al., 2022). Video is recognized for better contextualizing language (i.e., connecting language form to meaning) and representing a foreign culture than other educational resources. Students can practice important linguistic patterns by watching videotapes of native speakers participating in everyday conversational contexts. The visual dimension of video, as opposed to audiocassettes, is supposed to eliminate ambiguities in native speaker voices and stimulate students to desire to learn the foreign language. (Ules, 2022).

Based on the background above this dedication focuses on learning techniques that can be applied in helping 8th grade students in both Cambodia. The school targeted by the dedication team, which is SEPAMA Cambodia, is the Musa Asian Integrated School located in Phum 5 or Phum Ti Prem area in the village or province of Svay Khleang. Svay khleang is a province located in the Krauch Chmar District, Thbong Khmum Province, Cambodia. The Musa-Asia Integrated School of Cambodia teaches English as a foreign language. In their everyday lives, they use the Khmer language. SEPAMA is an Islamic school that lags behind in terms of economics and education (Musa, 2012). SEPAMA is one of the foundations of Buddhism. (Damayanti, 2003). There are eight students at Musa-Asia Intergrated School in the eighth grade. Because English is a foreign language. General education achievements in Cambodia have proved to be lagging behind in the region. For example, Cambodian literacy rates are much lower compared to Indonesia and the Philippines. (Tren Makro, 2020). Cambodian students seem to be lagging behind in school due to poor education and poor quality. In cambodia, the term cham-malay or cham-chvea, known also as khmer islam, refers to the muslim community, which mainly consists of the malay and the cham. The cham are descendants of refugees from a once powerful kingdom of champa, situated in the central part of the present-day vietnam, both along the coastal plain and the highlands in the west. The kingdom had controlled over the region between the second and the nineteenth centuries ad. (Musa, 1995).

However, literacy trends continue to increase in Cambodia, to rise back from an unstable past, the government and its people have chosen English as a second language to interact and do business with international entities and organizations. (Doeur, 2022). With this background, the dedication team is moving to provide training on the use of media Cocomelon Youtube Channel to help students learn speaking in both Cambodia.

Speaking is one of language skill which is very important to be mastered by students in order to be good communicator. Speaking is the verbal use of language to communicate with others. (Khaerunnisa, 2022). Speaking is a productive skill; it involves putting a message together, communicating the message, and interacting with other people. (Al-mukdad, 2021). However, speaking in English is a difficult thing that is faced by the students. (Sitorus & Silitonga, n.d.). In speaking, the students should have an idea in their mind to begin the activity. The idea can be equally mounting with the topic. The topic is what will be said or expressed. To express something is easy if we had knowledge interpreted with competence. (Togatorop, 2016).

In connection with the above issues, the community dedication team took steps by holding training in SEPAMA Cambodia. The service team chose the Cocomelon Youtube Channel media to help students learn speaking. The problem of dedication is a lack of foreign-speaking student media skills and methods for learning English as a foreign language. Then the service team used this Cocomelon You tube medium to be easily understood and studied by the partners.

Discussion

The discussion in this section is on how to analyze the results of the studies about students' pronunciation and fluency in learning to speak. Based on the writer's observation, the problems faced by students in SEPAMA Cambodia, especially in speaking. They haven’t studied from the beginning. They just start to learn English when they enter primary school in grade 4. But not all the students do it; some students can’t catch the lesson like other students. The classification grade there is like in Indonesia, but in SEPAMA Cambodia, we just have elementary school or primary school and junior high school or secondary school, which start from Grade 1 until 8. Grades 1-6 are primary school, and then 7-8 are secondary school. In Cambodia, high school is started in grades 10–12. The level of interest in SEPAMA Cambodia is low. Not all the students are interested in English. Some students like to learn English, but some do not. Usually, they like the way the teacher teaches them some activities that the teacher includes while teaching them.

The training partners are starting to become familiar with this media well, even in learning English partners do not feel difficulty, but they are challenged to use this media for learning other than English. The partners are already familiar with the learning media, but they are just practicing using the media Cocomelon Youtube Channel which they think is very interesting. English teacher is involved and excited to follow and accompany his students in this speaking training, who see him as a training partner. The result of this commitment is an improvement in the partners’ capacity to use the media on the Cocomelon Youtube Channel to learn speaking using established and trained criteria.

Conclusion

Based on the results of the community dedication activities on the training of the use of Cocomelon Youtube Channel in teaching speaking to students in SEPAMA Cambodia, this can be said to be successful because the ability of the partner in using this media can be seen from the training and support that the partner obtained. On the other hand, English teachers are helped with this training.

The partner is expected to develop the knowledge gained from the media training this time cocomelon you tube channel so not only speaking skills but can be applied to other English skills. English teachers should be more creative and innovative in giving English lessons so that with the new methods will make students more enthusiastic about following the English lesson.
